
THE SILVER SURFER

1 - FIRST ISSUE

One of Stan Lee's most distinctive stories — and one of John Buscema's most talented displays of art — was Silver Surfer's first issue, which premiered in August, 1968. The comic sold for 25 cents, when most regular comics sold for 12, but the 40 page story, followed by a 10 page science fiction parable called "Tales of the Watcher" by Stan Lee and Gene Colan, made it worth the extra 13 cents.

THE SILVER SURFER™

2 - GALACTUS

Galen, alias Galactus, is the sole survivor of the universe that existed prior to the creation of the current universe. Once Galactus was a mortal, but his humanity has been lost in the swirling mists of time. Galactus requires mysterious energies for his survival, energies he can only obtain by destroying and feeding off of planets.

NOTE: Galactus feeds once a month.

THE SILVER SURFER

3 - ZENN-LA

Searching for a suitable planet to devour, Galactus discovers Zenn-La, home of the adventurer Norrin Radd. In an attempt to save his planet, Norrin strikes a deal with Galactus. He will become Galactus' herald and scout for energy-rich planets for him to devour in exchange for an agreement to spare Zenn-La.

THE SILVER SURFER

4 - THE HERALD

Galactus anatomically restructures Norrin Radd's body, covering him in a silvery, flexible skin capable of withstanding rigorous travels through space. For transportation, Galactus fashions a surfboard for Norrin, made of the same material as his new skin.

THE SILVER SURFER

5

COSMIC ENERGY

Galactus granted Norrin Radd a fraction of his cosmic power, enabling him to perform the feats which would be necessary in the discharging of his new duties. Now armed with his new cosmic powers and space-traveling surfboard, Norrin Radd becomes The Silver Surfer.

THE SILVER SURFER

7 - MORALS

The Surfer dispatched his duties as herald efficiently and faithfully, but as time passed, it became increasingly difficult to find uninhabited planets to feed Galactus' hunger. Perturbed that The Surfer's moral compunctions were preventing him from performing his task, Galactus erased Silver Surfer's knowledge of his human origins.

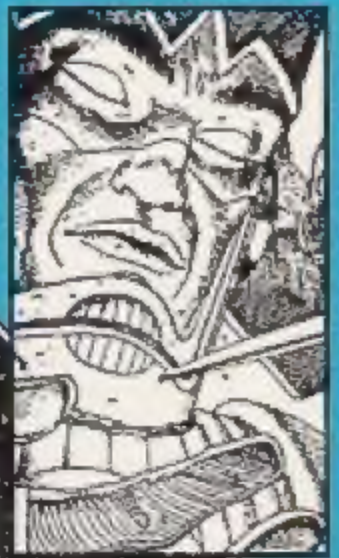
THE SILVER SURFER

8

IN THE BEGINNING



Legend has it that the creation of Galactus began with astonishingly simple instructions from Stan Lee to Jack Kirby: "Have them (The Fantastic Four) fight God." And so, on a rooftop high above the streets of Manhattan, Galactus was born.
